■ SNOW WHITE AND THE SEVEN DWARFS AT THE THEATRE ROYAL WINDSOR

WINDSOR'S biggest and most spectacular pantomime ever. A host of stars join you in this musical, magical pantomime treat.

The first lady of musical theatre Marti Webb stars as the Wicked Queen, with 'Baby Maria' Leanne Dobinson from this year's hit BBC TV show 'How Do You Solve A Problem Like Maria?'. Bernie Clifton and sidekick Oswald the Ostrich join special guest star Muffin the Mule to add to the magic. The great star cast also includes the inimitable Christopher Beeny as Herman the Henchman and Windsor's favourite Dame, Michael Sharvell-Martin. Michael Parkinson also guests as the Lord in the Mirror. It's Britain's most traditional star-led pantomime. Following the sell-out smash that was last year's Beauty and the Beast, join Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs on their exciting and magical journey... Will the handsome Prince get there in time?

And what will the Wicked Queen do if she's not the prettiest of them all? Nothing is quite what it seems in this age-old tale of love and adventure, which is presented for the first time ever at Windsor.

■ PETER PAN AT THE CAMBERLEY THEATRE

RUNNING from Wednesday, December 6, to Sunday, December 31, Peter Pan is sure to be the Camberley Theatre's most successful Christmas show yet. As always audiences are promised the best in traditional family entertainment with wonderful costumes, lavish sets, lively songs, fabulous dance and of course flying. Performing the role of the evil Captain Hook is Coronation Street's Ian Redford. Ian is probably best known as Keith Appleyard, Craig Harris's granddad. He was last seen in The Street battling with devious builder Charlie Stubbs. As well as Coronation Street Ian has appeared in numerous plays including many at the National Theatre, and on the West End. He has also appeared in many television shows including William & Mary, Doctors, The Bill, One Foot in the Grave, Wycliffe, House of Elliot and films including Remains of the Day and Trial by Fire. Ian will also be joined this year by local actor Martin Clarke, from Reading, who will play the title role Peter Pan, Lucy Lill as Wendy, Neil Smye as Hook's hapless sidekick Smee and Sarah Desmond as Mrs Darling. Promising festive fun for all the family, Peter Pan is already selling well. Audiences are advised to book early to avoid missing out on an awfully big adventure. Tickets range from £9.50 to £14.75 (discounts available for family parties and groups) and can be booked at The Camberley Theatre box office on 01276 707600 or online at www.camberleytheatre.biz

■ CINDERELLA AT SOUTH HILL PARK

BELIEVE it or not, Christmas is only a matter of weeks away (oh yes it is!) and South Hill Park is delighted to announce that its festive pantomime this year will be Cinderella.

By now everybody is familiar with the story of the poor princess whose life is a struggle with her two evil sisters bullying her when suddenly she encounters a handsome prince at the ball. Before they can exchange mobile phone numbers though she has to tear herself away before midnight otherwise her carriage will turn into a pumpkin. How can she prove that his heart belongs to her? How can she be saved from her miserable life of toil and cleaning products? Well, if you don't know by now we'll give you a clue - it doesn't involve identification through DNA but by matching a glass slipper. If only life was that simple. Well it is panto after all. Set in South Hill Park's Wilde Theatre this year's pantomime will not disappoint as it features the usual mix of laughs, fun and participation matched with spectacular set designs and stunning costumes. Book now for more fun than you can shake a wand at!
