What's On ADVERTISING FEATURE

The Bookham Grange Country House Hotel is now taking bookings for Mothering Sunday.

Grange is buzzing with life

THE Bookham Grange Country House Hotel is starting to buzz with life.

This once sleepy venue was full of music and romance on Valentine's Night.

Guests were delighted with the flavours on their plates prepared by the Latino chefs. The candles burned until late for the couples dancing to the sounds of a classy Spanish guitarist.

One lucky couple had won a competition run by a local radio station which meant their evening meal and entertainment was free, plus free overnight accommodation.

Bookings are now being taken for Mothering Sunday, March 2.

"Of course, many single people would love to be in that situation but have not found the right partner. This is yet another occasion following Christmas, new year and Valentine's Day when they are reminded they are alone.

"We can help. By using our personal introduction service we bring genuine people together for long term, meaningful relationships. With a local office here in Guildford, which liaises closely with neighbouring offices, Searchmate has a national network, which has been in existence for eight years.

"Now the UK's largest introduction agency, it offers the benefit of local personal contact with an established professional service."
